Plan To Exhume Body In Shepherd Inquiry

Chief Justice Seeks Evidence of Heir's Connection With Death

ASKS ABOUT POSTMORTEM
Private Detective Admits Attempt to Lure Doctor to Accompany Him

By Associated Press
Chicago—Exhumation of the body of the late Dr. Oscar Olson, brother of Harry Olson, chief justice of the municipal court, who has prosecuted the investigation of the death of William McClintock, millionaire orphan, will be ordered in connection with that case, says the Chicago Tribune Monday.

The action long contemplated became a certainty, says the newspaper,
after the coroner's jury last Friday
heard about the alleged interest of William D. Shepherd in typhoid fever
germs and of his inheriting $1,000,000
when young McClintock died, supposedly of typhoid fever, and other witnesses related the circumstances of
Dr. Olson's death.

McCLINTOCK'S FRIEND
Judge Olson said that his brother
had been a friend of the McClintock's
before the birth of William and was a friend of the youth until his death
three years ago when William was eighteen. Dr. Olson thought Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd were trying to lessen his influence with the youth, whom he intended to guide in making a will.
said Judge Olson Dr. Olson suffered an attack of pneumonia poisoning, was visited by the Shepherds, was alone for a time with Mr. Shepherd, ate a pear proffered by him and died a few hours later, said the Judge.

A physician signed a certificate of death from heart disease. Dr. George Fosberg testified at the inquest that Shepherd twice had sought information about the post-mortem examinations after a death due to typhoid fever or poisoning by a certain acid.

John Hutchinson, a private detective, was arrested Sunday at the offices of Dr. Fosberg and admitted that he was acting under instructions to get Dr. Fosberg to accompany him to a place he refused to name.

FOIL SECOND ATTEMPT TO BLACKMAIL MRS. STOKES

By Associated Press
Chicago—The second attempt within a week to blackmail Mrs. Helen Ellwood Stokes of Denver, Colo., in connection with the trial of her husband, W. E. D. Stokes, of New York,
on charges of conspiracy to defame
the coroner, failed Sunday, according to W. C. Dannenberg, investigator for Mrs. Stokes.

Dannenberg said a woman who said
she was Madame Lorraine Quarty of Philadelphia, remembered dressing
Mrs. Stokes' hair under circumstances such as to make her silence
worth money. She disappeared, said Dannenberg, when he mentioned the psychopathic hospital.

KING BORIS COMPLAINS
OF REPORTS ON WEDDING

By Associated Press
Sofia—Commenting on a report in the foreign press that he is to marry
Princess Giovanna of Italy, King Boris recently said through one of his secretaries, to representatives of the press:

"Will not they finally let my modest personality alone? They are wedding me from time to time without my consent. They are leading me to the altar without my knowledge. When some day I make up my mind to marry and the fact is communicated
to the press, the news of the wedding
will not be credited."

New National Party Accepts
LaFollette Plan for States

By Associated Press
Chicago—Delegates to the "convention for Progressive Political Action" who Saturday decided to form a new national party after nine days of discussion of their convention Sunday concluded their meeting here by adopting plans for organization of states and allotting representation in a national convention to be called later.

The "LaFollette plan" recommended in a report of six members of a committee of seven named to decide upon a basis of representation in the new party, was accepted.

The party will consist of state organizations upon geographical lines,
such organizations to be autonomous
and formed on such lines as the states
determine, the plan sets forth. Cooperation of organization which supported the national independent Progressive candidates in the last election will be sought, and delegates to the proposed national convention, a date for which was not fixed, will be proportioned to the aggregate number of votes cast under all party designations for those candidates in the last election. An executive committee of five, to be appointed by Chairman William Johnston, of Washington, will have power to admit delegates on the basis of representation they deem proper.

ROBBERS LOOT CARMEN
ON SUPERIOR TROLLEY

Superior—Forcing the conductor
and motorman of a Duluth-Superior street car to lie down on the floor of the trolley after firing two shots
wildly, two robbers robbed the conductor of all his money, estimated at more than $30, just as the car approached its terminus in Superior on midnight Sunday.

M. Houser, conductor, and C. H.
Holmes, the motorman, were alone
on the car when the two entered. Just as the car approached its terminus the two thugs covered the trolley men with pistols. As a mark of warning each fired a shot and then ordered the carmen to lie face down on the floor of the car. Houser was stripped of his money. After warning the men to remain on the floor,
the thugs escaped into the darkness.

Press Stresses
King's Voyage

London—Although it is known through the medical bulletins issued from Buckingham Palace that King George's condition is not serious as a result of his attack of bronchitis, the fact that his physicians have ordered him to the Mediterranean for the remainder of the winter has caused quite a stir of which the newspapers take full advantage for front page displays.

His majesty's health ordinarily is good and his foreign visits so frequent that his going abroad
is treated as an important event.
It is understood he will make the trip south aboard the royal steam yacht Victoria and Albert, a ship of 4,700 tons, which like the American presidential yacht Mayflower, is maintained by the government appropriation for the use of the head of the state.

Queen Mary probably will not accompany the King on the yacht. She is a bad sailor and will journey by train.

Passage of Measure by House
and Senate Marks First Time Both Have Disregarded
Caution

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1925 by the Post Pub. Co.
Washington, D. C.—There are dozens of reasons why members of the house of representatives and the United States Senate deserve an increase in salary, but there are dozens of other reasons why it may be politically embarrassing for the added
pay to be voted.

Introduced by Senator Ball of Delaware whose term expires on Mar. 4
and whose successor already has been elected, the proposed bill had the good fortune also to be passed in both senate and house without a rollcall showing who voted for and who voted against it.

It had been expected that if nobody else demands a rollcall, some of the insurgents will, for the feeling between those who have been excluded from the Republican party and those who have essayed to control the party
councils is none too good.

STRIVE FOR ECONOMY

Up in the executive end of the government where the increase also would apply to cabinet officers, there's even greater uneasiness than in congress.
The President Coolidge is carrying on the extreme by demanding that the nickels and dimes be saved, members of the cabinet are striving to emulate him as much as possible. How, therefore, can cabinet officers who have been dismissing government employees right and left accept an increase in their own pay?
This same line of argument is being applied to congress, both houses of which have cut appropriations materially.

Time was when a salary increase for congress would have gone through without dissent from any quarter.
That was just after war was declared,
when the cost of living shot upward
and most everybody was getting an increase in salary. Since the war there has been a tendency to deflate and in many industries there have been reductions instead of increases. Professional salaries have kept pace with the pay in the industrial world and there's no doubt that the average
member of congress finds it hard sledding on $7,500 a year. It isn't that living in Washington is higher than in New York or other big cities, but that members of both the house and senate find themselves obliged to spend money either entertaining constituents who come to town or in extra clerical hire to care for the multitude of details on which constituents are demanding service.

Congress always has hesitated about increasing its own pay and the truth
is members privately are wondering if they can "get away with it" this time. Some of the editorial expressions which have come in thus far,
however, indicate that while the increase may be justified, congress has chosen an inopportune moment to raise the issue.

There are favorable expressions also and there seems no doubt that many of the diligent members of congress who work day and night at their jobs are wholly deserving, but the nightmare which worries the members today is what the opponents of the incumbents will say in the stump in the next primaries, fourteen months hence, perhaps something like this: "Congressman Blank didn't get an appropriation for our overcrowded postoffice building or money
to widen our harbor, but he did get himself an increase in pay."

The political side of the argument always is uppermost with members of congress and the passage of the increased pay bill makes one of the first instances in which political consideration has been thrown to the winds
in that body. Now everybody is wondering what President Coolidge, committed to rigid economy, will do about it when the measure comes before him for signature.

She Says Shepherd Lied
Fiancee of Millionaire Orphan, William McClintock, Tells of Machinations of His Chief Heir

Miss Isabelle Pope, fiancée of William McClintock, Chicago's "millionaire orphan," whose death probe has been reopened, testified that W. D.
Shepherd, foster father, of her 18-year-old son, kept them from marrying by telling her that both parties had to be present when a license was secured. She found this to be untrue too late to wed McClintock, she says. Below, Judge Olson, who asked the probe, is reading a love letter written by Shepherd to Miss Estelle Gehring, a nurse
which the latter turned over to the court.

LAST OF UNION CORPS
COMMANDERS PASSES

few days when he suffered a relapse.
After his retirement from the army
following his service during the war

in Wilmington. He followed literary pursuits and took an interest in the local activities during the World war.

ly, when two cars on the Rockford

The cars met in a dense fog while traveling at high speed. Both caught

After an investigation it was an-

of the westbound car, would be charged

minor injuries.

Others injured included: Chester

HOUSE REPORTS
FINAL ITEM ON

Measure Carries $54,426,562,
and Will Be Taken Up

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C.—A deficiency appropriation bill carrying $54,426,562, or $476,674 less than budget estimates,
was reported Monday by the house appropriations committee. It is the last supply measure of the session and will be taken up Tuesday by the house.

Items in the bill include $30,000,000
for naval construction, $15,000,000 for a 500-bed hospital at the Pacific branch of the national home for disabled volunteer soldiers at Santa Monica, Calif.; $325,000 for a new coast cutter to replace the Bear in Alaskan waters; $909,100 for purchase of land and construction of an industrial institution for women at Alderson, W. Va.; $1,342,700 for fighting fires in national forests; $25,000 for the public health service to investigate the oyster industry as a result of the recent typhoid situation, and $300,000 for the Alaska railroad.

Of the $30,000,000 allowed for naval construction, $9,000,000 would be used toward modernization of the battleships New York, Utah, Florida, Texas, Arkansas and Wyoming, the total in-
it of cost of which is to be $12,360,- 000. $14,000,000 for continuing construction of the aircraft carriers Lexington and Saratoga, $3,000,- 000 for aircraft and accessories for these two ships and $4,000,000 for aircraft and accessories for these two ships and $4,000,000 for the construction of six gunboats and two of the eight cruisers recently authorized by congress.

The committee allowed an additional $100,000 for prospecting suits in connection with the naval oil reserve increase and $15,000 for payment of fees and expenses of witnesses testifying before
a grand jury here in the new proceedings of Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana. The bill, however, did not carry $100,000 requested by the department of justice for further prosecution of war fraud cases.

Included in the bill are $150,000 to be used toward erection of a memorial to the women of the World war in the form of a building on the site of the American Red Cross building here, $274,465 for the Omaha Indians of Ne-

telegraphic conference, $5,000 for debt
commission expenses, $20,000 for distribution of German war trophies and battlefield near Frederickburg and Spottsylvania Courthouse, Va.

The committee allowed $228,000 for increased subsistence costs at national homes for disabled volunteer soldiers; $31,000 for sugar investigations and experimentation, and $75,000 for a special study of foot and mouth disease.

RUMANIAN CABINET IN

meeting at which the question of the dispute with Germany over redemption of forced war currency was to be discussed, broke up in a row between Foreign Minister Duca and Finance

on the German affair could be heard.

At Bratiano, according to the dispatches, charged that the foreign office was mismanaged and needed re-

Chicago—Homer Collins
was in Chicago Sunday to go

SULLIVAN BURIES
MINE BLAST DEAD

Informal Inquiry Brings Conclusion Disaster Was Accidental

Sullivan, Ind.—Bodies of the victims
of last Friday's explosion in the City Coal Co.'s mine and rendering aid to the families of the 51 dead miners occupied the attention of this mining city Monday. Next came the problem of determining the cause of the blast
and the possibilities of averting another such tragedy.

Funerals were held Monday for almost a score of the mine victims. Speculation continued as to the cause of the explosion which, at 10:30 last Friday, wrecked a portion of the underground workings and brought a shower of timbers, loose coal and slate
down upon the trapped men.

It was generally agreed that the sudden opening of a gas pocket had let into the mine a sufficient amount of gas to cause an explosion. How the gas was ignited is problematical.

Normal N. Harris, Sullivan co-prosecutor, who has been making informal inquiry regarding the explosion,
indicated that his only deduction from conversations with miners was that the blast was accidental and apparently there was no criminal negligence.

SEEK MOONSHINERS WHO KILLED TWO HI-JACKERS

By Associated Press
Kansas City, Mo.—Bootleg channels were being explored here Monday by the police in an effort to learn the identity of moonshiners who put to death a patrolman and a former police officer who had turned "hijackers."

The victims were Burt J. Gloverjoy and George Peters. It is believed they were killed last Tuesday. Their bodies were uncovered Sunday in the East Bottoms in a cave from which they are known to have removed more than 200 gallons of moonshine whisky last Sunday.

Police say that Lovejoy and Peters robbed the moonshine cache and boot-
legged part of the stolen whisky.

Search for the men was initiated by the police Saturday after two women with whom they had associated reported their disappearance and told
the police of their dealings in liquor.

Prison Riots
Stir Up Alarm

San Quentin, Calif.—Officials of the state prison here were greatly concerned Monday over a condition that has arisen as a result of a small riot recently between Mexican and American prisoners. In the disturbance one Mexican was killed and other persons were injured. Guards quelled
the outbreak before it assumed more serious proportions but there has been considerable danger of another flareup since, they said.

Sunday was the quietest day
the prison has seen in years. Sundays and holidays usually are days
of some diversion, but not even religious services were permitted
because of the fear that hostilities
would be renewed.

The Mexicans have charged discrimination which prison authorities deny. An investigation is being conducted by Frank J. Smith, who recently became warden.

President Opens Conference of Women for National Defense

COOPERATION IS NEEDED

If Every Nation Would Enforce
Polioy, Armament Costs
Would Shrink

Washington, D. C.—Proportionately
as the nations make progress in creating effective tribunals for peaceful settlement of international differences,
they will find themselves able to lessen their military establishments,
President Coolidge said in an address
Monday to delegates to the women's conference on national defense as peace insurance.

"If the rule of law were established and certain, then there would be far less need of armaments," the president said. "So far as we advance toward security under law, we shall be able to reduce the strength and cost of armaments."

Speaking to the delegates at the White House, the president made no direct reference to the pending move
for another arms conference but did take occasion to say "that a country
so powerful in numbers and wealth,
so fortunate in its location as our own
can and should set an example of moderation in armament, and should invite others to pursue a similar program."

"And whenever a particular nation shall convince its neighbors it seeks
a course of preparation without aggression," he said, "it will be easier
for other nations to adopt a similar attitude."

WISH TO SHARE PEACE

"The only enduring peace must be the peace of law, of order, of security and honor. Such peace we wish for ourselves, and we devoutly wish to share it with every neighbor in the family of nations."

"Universal and assures peace, under the law of nations, is an ideal to which all of us are devoted. It is true that we have not stopped wars. But it is also true that there is today a more definite and more widely entertained conception than ever before, of the possibility to prevent war under an effective rule of law. This is the great advance."

"But we are compelled to recognize that national safety requires such a measure of preparedness as shall be the guarantee against aggression, without committing the nation to mili-taryism. For the present, the most we can hope is to secure general acceptance, in good faith and without reservation, of the view that whatever armaments we create, whatever preparations we make shall be limited to the reasonable requirements of security."

"I do not think we should set a good example by abolishing our army and navy. But we can afford to limit
our military and naval establishments
so as to assure that, while determined and able to defend ourselves, we have no intent of aggression. If every nation would enforce such a policy the cost of armaments would be enormously lessened, and the general welfare of humanity correspondingly promoted."

SUCCESS ASSURED FOR
OSHKOSH G. O. P. PARLEY

By Associated Press
Oshkosh—The Republican statewide conference called by the Sixth District Republican club to convene in Armory "B," Oshkosh, at 10 A.
M. Monday, Mar. 2, is an assured success.

The thing that seems to be giving strength to this movement is the fact that those who have been instrumental in calling it have no political axes to grind. Factionalism has not so far entered into the movement in any form, since members of all factions of orthodox Republicans of the state have signified their intention of participating. The main purpose of the conference is to set up an organization that shall function for the calling of a state convention in 1926, and to prosecute a vigorous educational campaign from now until the next general election.

AUTOMOBILES SKID, PEDESTRIANS FALL ON ICED STREETS

Rain and Sleet Remind Appleton of Storm of Three Years Ago

Rain and sleet which has fallen here intermittently since Sunday afternoon served as an unpleasant reminder that Sunday was the third anniversary of the memorable sleet storm of Washington's birthday, Feb. 22, 1922, which caused thousands of dollars damage in this locality.

The slippery condition of walks and pavements was responsible for a number of minor accidents. Telephone and telegraph lines also experienced a little trouble. Many motorists who had started out without the tire chains were caught unaware by the sudden fall to sleet. Driving was exceedingly difficult. The streets and highways were coated with ice. Conditions were improved with the rise in temperature Monday morning. Although scores of pedestrians were nursing bruised limbs as the result of many a hard tumble, no serious accidents were reported to the police.

CANT RUN BUSSES
The Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company took off its motorbuses at about 8 o'clock Sunday night owing to the hazardous condition of the roads, but restored them Monday equipped with tire chains. Street cars and interurban cars had little trouble outside of being delayed occasionally by automobiles that would stall on the tracks. At least a dozen automobiles were tied up in a jam at McCarthy crossing north of Kaukauna when one or two wouldn't climb the grade and thus impeded the progress of the others. A Green Bay bus was delayed with the others.

Appleton motorists returning from Oshkosh late Sunday afternoon reported that there were from 30 to 40 cars in the ditch between that city and Appleton due to slippery roads. None of the occupants of the cars seemed to be injured when the machines slid from the road and only a few of the vehicles appeared to be damaged. One car however was turned over on its side and the body badly damaged. A street in Menasha, which was especially slippery, had to be roped off and guarded by police, and motorists were forced to make a wide detour, according to reports.

The Weather

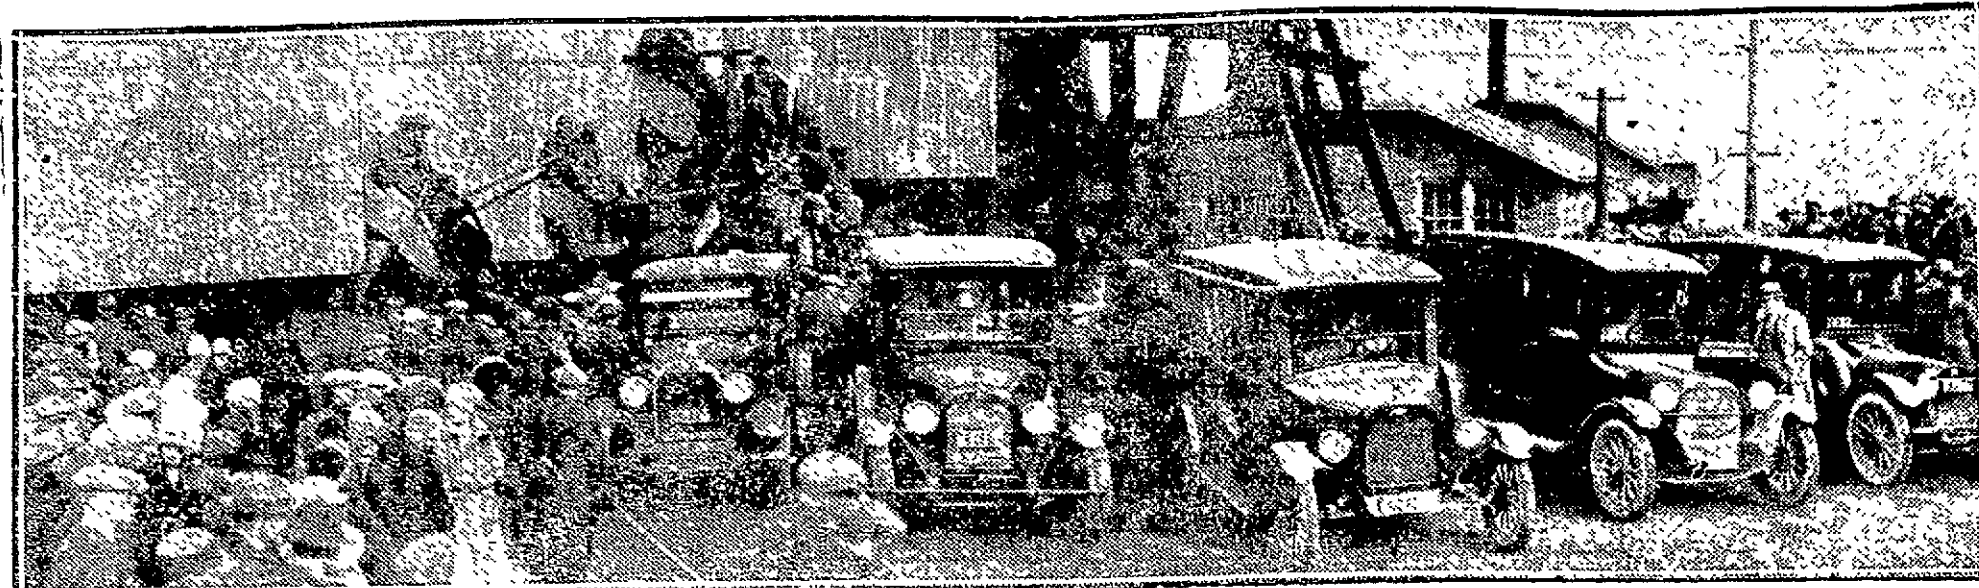

WEATHER FOR WISCONSIN
Mostly cloudy tonight and Tuesday, probably followed by snow or rain Tuesday night. Rising temperature Tuesday in west portion.

GENERAL WEATHER

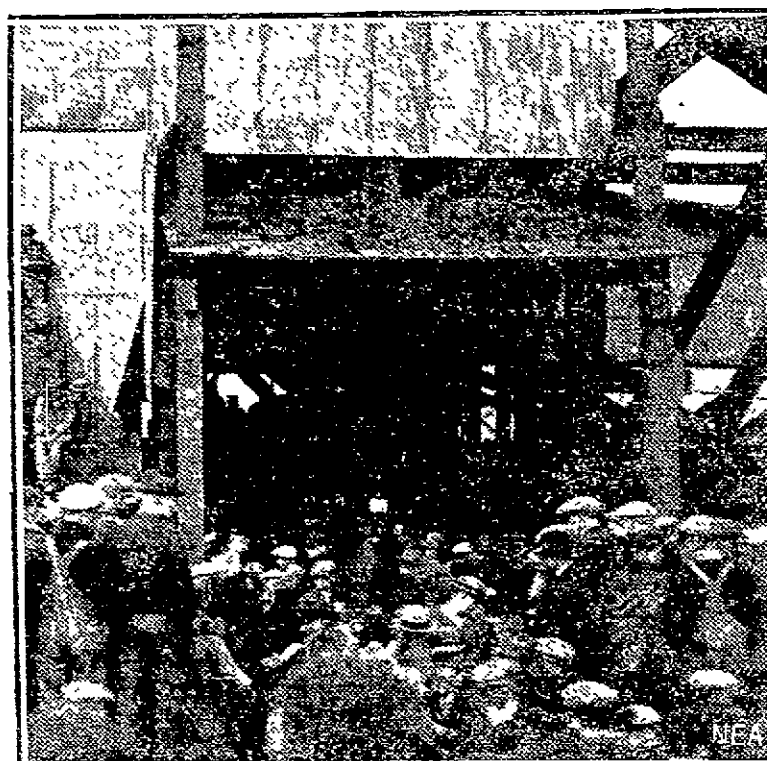

An extensive and active low pressure area has formed in the southwest and moved to the Ohio Valley and southern Lake regions over the week end, with rain or snow from the Gulf coast northward. A slight crest of high pressure follows the "low" with much energy, except over Manitoba and extreme northern Minnesota where the temperatures are somewhat lower than elsewhere. Low pressure is recorded over the northern Rockies, moving eastward, with mild temperature and rain in the Pacific states. Cloudiness is expected to continue in this section over Tuesday under these conditions with unsettled weather again by Tuesday afternoon or night.

WHERE FIFTY-ONE MINERS LOST THEIR LIVES

Above is a closeup view of the City Coal Mine, near Sullivan, Ind., where 51 miners lost their lives in a gas explosion. A large crowd gathered near the shaft as mine rescue teams went into the working in an effort to rescue miners trapped by the explosion. At the right can be seen mothers and daughters of the ill-fated miners waiting word of their loved ones. Ambulances are drawn up before the shaft to carry away the dead and injured. At the left is shown rescue teams entering the mine as relatives and friends of the miners crowd around the shaft.

HENRY FOSTER IS CALLED BY DEATH

Was One of City's Pioneers and Had Drug Store for Many Years

Death removed one of the earliest pioneers of this city when it claimed Henry Foster Saturday evening at his home at 131 E. Kimball-st. He was one of Appleton's first druggists. Mr. Foster was in good health most of his life, but began to be less active and hardy following a fall several years ago when he injured an arm. He was 83 years old at the time of his death.

He was born on July 17, 1841 in Fort Atkinson, and was a son of Alvin Foster, the second mayor of Appleton. He came here with his parents in 1857. He attended Lawrence university for five terms, and in 1861 he established a drug store at the corner of College-ave and Oneida-st, the present site of the citizens National bank, and conducted this business for 43 years. He retired from business in 1904.

In the early days, when drug stores were a rendezvous for citizens, the drug store of Mr. Foster was the gathering place of the most prominent citizens of the city. He had a keen interest for sports, and was active in yachting on Lake Winnebago and also took great interest in horses. All his life in Appleton he resided in the Kimball-st. home, one of the very oldest of the city. It was the site purchased by his father. He was one of the oldest members of Waverly lodge of the Masonic order, he having been admitted more than 50 years ago.

He was never married, and the nearest relatives to survive him are two second cousins. The funeral services will be conducted by Dr. H. E. Peabody at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon at the Foster home. Last rites will be conducted by the Masonic order.

SLICK WASHINGTON NOT SLICK ENOUGH TO FOOL COOLIDGE

President's Insistence on Economy Spoiled Plans of Capital Hotelmen

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington — When President Coolidge said he wanted a quiet, inexpensive inauguration March 4, he meant it.

Washington didn't understand him so. This may see queer. The president was plain enough about it.

The fact is, Washington preferred not to understand him.

Business Washington, social Washington and official Washington love a big inaugural splurge.

The bigger the splurge the bigger the crowd. What business Washington doesn't know about squeezing money out of crowds isn't worth while finding out.

For instance, although the show can't possibly last more than a day, Washington's hotels announced that they wouldn't consider room reservations for less than four days, the idea being to charge four days' fancy prices for a one-day blowout.

That's why business Washington likes a huge display.

CHANCE FOR SOCIETY
Social Washington likes it because a big show affords society a chance to show off.

Official Washington likes it on account of the obsequies it furnishes to put visiting constituents under obligations for various small services rendered, and, besides, official Washington has certain interests which merge with business and social Washington's.

Business, social and official Washington undertook to handle the situation—so they thought—diplomatically.

They said the inauguration would be a quiet affair, of course. That was what the president wanted. That was what he'd get. Still, there would be a big parade.

There'd be stands, with seats at $3, $4 and $5, to view the parade from 'there'd be a court of honor. There'd be a big inaugural ball.

These different items were added on, inconspicuously, from time to time. Nobody would realize, so the managing committee assumed, that a monster celebration was being built up, bit by bit.

COOLIDGE GOT WISE
Unfortunately President Coolidge did notice that, a little at a time, the inaugural ceremonies were swelling up and up and up.

Then, once more, item by item, he began cutting them down.

He wouldn't attend the inaugural ball. He never said he would, but

DROWN, ASLEEP ON STREET, PAYS $5 FOR LODGING

A fine of $5 and costs was imposed by Judge Fred V. Heineemann, acting municipal judge, Saturday morning upon Clement Kaminsky of Menasha, who was charged with being intoxicated. The Menasha man was arrested by Sergeant Earl Vande Bogart at 11:50 Friday night near the Central Motor Car company garage where he was asleep.

ROBERT EADS WINS FIRST PRIZE IN POSTER CONTEST

Robert Eads was awarded first prize for the best poster in the good English contest conducted among the English students of Appleton high school recently. The award was made by Lee C. Rasey, principal, during the general assembly period Friday morning.

Honorable mention was given to Agnes Glasnap, Carl Nelson and Rosetta Selig. The posters are exhibited on the bulletin board.

the committee had calculated that, at the last minutes, he'd have to.

He vetoed the court of honor. The parade? From a pageant which have taken hours and hours to get past "a given point," he trimmed it to 45 minutes at most.

Regrettably the committee is returning the money it had collected, to provide the classiest inauguration in this country's history.

Still more regrettably it has not decided it had better take back its appropriation of funds to pay for fireworks and the decoration of "historic sites."

President Coolidge, it appears, wants to be inaugurated quietly and inexpensively. The committee hadn't known this before.

ROUPINE COMPANY WILL DO MUCH ADVERTISING

The Roupine company, manufacturing a poultry remedy, has moved into new quarters above the Fox River Hardware company, George Lausmann, president, has announced. John Goodland Jr., is treasurer, and manager of the company. Other officers are Dr. D. S. Runnels, vice president, and John R. Gilsdorf, secretary.

The company has planned a large advertising campaign, during which 10,000 sample bottles of its product will be sent to poultry raisers.

C. OF C. HAS APPOINTED LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE

Legislative activities of Appleton Chamber of Commerce are to be handled hereafter by a special committee appointed for that purpose, consisting of J. D. Steele, Dr. D. O. Kinsman, J. P. Frank and Seymour Gmeiner. Bills before the Wisconsin legislature that require special attention or necessitate presence of local people at hearings will be referred to them.

The chamber is keeping its members informed on every law proposed in the senate or assembly, through a bulletin service worked in cooperation with Wisconsin Manufacturers association. Notice also is given concerning hearings that are scheduled.

There has been added to the chamber of commerce reference department a directory giving the names of all Wisconsin officials and those from Wisconsin serving in national offices. A complete directory of the state assembly and senate also is available to anyone needing this information.

Don't Forget Direction On Your Address

Delivery of local mail is being delayed because of neglect of a number of residents to include the directional prefix in their addresses. Each morning a large pack of mail is held up for want of sufficient or correct address.

Because in many cases a street number might apply to either west or east part of a street, mail carriers often are in doubt as to which of the two addresses is meant. This is true especially when two homes are on two carriers' routes. Distributing clerks at the postoffice also are burdened by the omission of the prefix, since they do not know to which carrier they are to distribute the piece of mail.

THREE WILL SPEAK AT ROTARY DINNER

Bradford, Johns and Keller Will Give Addresses at Anniversary Function

Three local speakers will take part in the program at the banquet at 6:15 Tuesday evening at Hotel Northern, given by the Rotary club to honor the anniversary of the founding of Rotary. They are F. S. Bradford, the club's first president, J. L. Johns, charter member and president of the Kiwanis club, and Gustave Keller, Sr. Mr. Keller will speak of the Worldwide Fellowship.

Charles Henderson, vice president of the Rotary club, will read the annual address of Everett W. Will, Oklahoma City, Okla., president of Rotary International. A roll call of nations in which Rotary is represented also will be conducted.

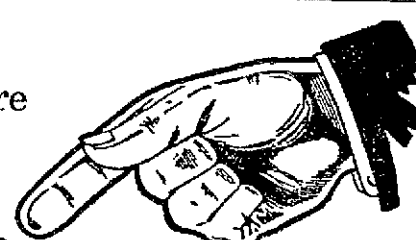

Wives of the Rotarians are to be guests at the dinner. Music also will be included in the program and a social hour probably will be arranged.

APPOINT COMMITTEE FOR BUTTE DES MORTS CLUB

Standing committees of Butte des Morts Golf club will be appointed at a meeting of the board of directors Monday evening. They will gather for dinner at 6 o'clock at Hotel Northern.

New officers of the club are: Seymour Gmeiner, president; F. E. Sennebrener, vice president; H. H. Pelkey, secretary; W. J. Konrad, Jr., treasurer. Mr. Konrad was elected to succeed M. A. Schuh as treasurer.

Sixteen Aids

In Phillips' Dental Magnesia

Magnesia and three other antacids.
Antiseptics—four of them.
Iodine—for the gums.
Cleansers—made of fruit oil.
Polishers—to whiten teeth.
Deodorants—for the breath.

Awake Tomorrow

with a sweet, clean mouth

Do one simple thing, and you will tomorrow awake to a new era in tooth and mouth hygiene.

Apply Phillips' Dental Magnesia tonight. It will bring you pleasant and complete effects. It applies 16 ingredients which the teeth require. Learn what it does, and you will never again want a tooth paste which does less.

Magnesia all-important

Magnesia on the teeth is all-important. Leading dentists, the world over, urge its constant use.

Magnesia neutralizes acids, the cause of tooth decay. Those acids are caused by food fermentation around and between the teeth. One touch of magnesia kills them.

Here we apply that magnesia in concentrated form, to penetrate between the teeth and stay. We apply Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—the super-magnesia—standard with dentists for 50 years.

It is folly to spend a day or night without that tooth protection.

The modern dentifrice

Phillips' Dental Magnesia does more. It embodies the "Formula of 1924"—the latest and the greatest. Four great organizations combined to create it, to meet in one tooth paste all modern requirements.

Four antiseptics are included, to combat the germs which breed by millions in the mouth. Iodine is there, the great protector of the gums. Also a fruit-oil cleanser. Also two polishers, the best men know to whiten and beautify teeth. And deodorants for the breath.

There are 16 ingredients, each selected by authorities. You apply them all at once in Phillips' Dental Magnesia.

Change methods now

Perhaps you are using a tooth paste—one-tenth as efficient. You must use a mouth wash afterward, then magnesia, to gain real protection. Learn now what it means to gain all effects, simply by brushing the teeth.

These pleasant and complete effects will bring a new conception of teeth cleaning. You will never return to the old ways.

Your druggist now has Phillips' Dental Magnesia in its latest form. Don't let another night go by without it, if you realize the importance of fighting these foes of teeth.

Based on Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—the super-magnesia, standard for 50 years with dentists and physicians. At all drug stores.

THE UNIVERSITY

The prevailing social order in Wisconsin seems to be that educational questions shall not be determined by educators, but by politicians. The University of Wisconsin is being sorely neglected; there is no doubt about this. We have as authority for this statement the opinion of the president of the board of regents and of the president of the university himself.

Dr. Birge says the university is slipping. It has not been possible to maintain it on the level that development of modern educational methods and equipment requires with the appropriations to which it has been limited. Furthermore, the proposal before the legislature to again reduce appropriations will make it impossible for it to continue to operate on the same high standard as the other great universities of the country.

"What man of ability," asked Dr. Birge, "would care to leave a present good position and come to Wisconsin in order to discharge employees and teachers and close departments?" Already the university has undergone the humiliation of having the tender of its presidency rejected by a distinguished educator of the East.

At the last session of the legislature the university was put on the common basis of political institutions of the state. A scheme was put through to enlarge the board of regents to place it more thoroughly in control of politics. It was a brainy move—not.

The people of Wisconsin must decide soon whether the university is to be made a tool and plaything of politics or whether it is to remain an outstanding and useful educational institution.

ANOTHER DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE

The disclosure came the other day from London, through questioning in the house of parliament, that conversations are in progress between the capitals of Europe and Washington for the calling of another international conference on reduction of naval armament. The report has been confirmed by an official announcement from the White house admitting that these negotiations are in progress. It appears from the guarded information given out that the feelers put forth by President Coolidge have met with a favorable reception. The approaches thus far have been informal, but it is understood that the proposal has in mind a consideration of restrictions on fighting craft not covered by the Washington treaty. It is said that the subject of land armament will not be taken up, although regulations dealing with aircraft will be. It is also probable that a number of matters in connection with the Washington treaty, concerning which there have been diverse interpretations, will be clarified and a specific understanding reached.

It has been President Coolidge's purpose to defer steps toward calling another disarmament conference until the Davies reparations settlement was put into effect and until it was definitely decided whether there would be a European conference on disarmament. He was so frank in his references to the subject in his message to congress last December it was indicated to Europe that if a League of Nations conference was not initiated, the United States would take the role. Mr. Coolidge said then that he waited "a favorable opportunity," and hoped it would present itself in due season. That he considers the time near at hand when a second conference may be held is indicated by the soundings being made. Agreement upon the agenda for such a conference is a delicate matter, and it necessarily will take time to obtain complete accord on the scope of this further undertaking toward peace. It may require weeks or even months to bring the proposal to a focus, but we may reasonably expect that the second disarmament conference will be held at Washington some time during the year.

The important thing is that the move has been made and that progress toward the great goal of reducing armaments is in prospect. As a practical method for ditching war, reduction of armament has no equal. Without great military establishments nations will ever be less likely to draw the sword, and more inclined to adjust differences by peaceful methods. At any rate, they will not plunge so hastily into war.

If the United States can be the medium of bringing about reduction of armaments from time to time, it will be leading the world toward a peace atmosphere in which it will be much easier to establish adjudication of disputes and to set up other machinery for preventing war.

THE THIRD PARTY DEAD?

Mr. La Follette may or may not be disheartened by the action of the railway brotherhoods in voting to have nothing further to do with the third party, but that should not deter him from his project. Numbers should be a secondary matter with the doughty senator. Fighting Bob stands for principles, like the single taxers, the socialists, the prohibitionists, and so on. It is true that prohibition did not come through the prohibition party, nor woman suffrage through Belva Lockwood, but these facts seem to impress labor more than La Follette.

Labor made a wise decision at the Chicago conference to cut loose from the third party and have no further official affiliation with a political organization. This is going back to the policy adhered to for so many years by Samuel Gompers, and which unquestionably brought greater social and economic advancement to the cause of labor than could possibly have been achieved through direct political action. The wisdom of this course in the future is indicated by past results. Labor has sufficient foresight to see that it is not likely to get anywhere by tying up its fortunes with those of the senator from Wisconsin. It is another testimonial to the stability, restraint and good judgment of organized labor as it exists today. The path of true labor progress is through social and economic effort. Nothing is to be gained by pooling its fortunes in a common pot with those politically ambitious. Labor can get what it requires of government, what it is entitled to, through one of the major parties by making itself socially influential. It can accomplish a great deal more by convincing the public at large of the justness and reasonableness of its aims than by attempting to control the country's politics.

We cannot imagine that Mr. La Follette will be discouraged by the desertion of the railway brotherhoods. He is now adrift on the open sea. He has no further connection with the Republican party and of course he will not obliterate himself in the Democratic party. There is nothing else for him to do, so far as we can see, but to stick to his raft and keep the sail up. The winds may shunt the craft into the harbor of Wisconsin waters and entrap it there, but that would be like putting back to the port from which he sailed, and he would be in no worse position than when he sailed forth onto the high seas with the Socialists and labor on the ill-fated expedition of 1924. And there you are. The third party movement may not be dead, but its outlook for robust maturity is not so promising as its originator might desire.

THE CAUSE OF ST. VITUS' DANCE.

St. Vitus' dance (Sydenham's chorea), is suspiciously associated with tonsillitis; both conditions occur so frequently with endocarditis (inflammation of heart lining or valves) and arthritis (joint inflammation, inflammatory "rheumatism") that physicians have long believed some common cause responsible. At the present time it seems fairly certain that the cause is—not the weather, I am delighted to say, but, if you will pardon me for dragging in such a subject again—a germ.

Now, I am not to blame for this. I have no overwhelming fondness for germs. I have no great fear of them; I worry little about them, though I respect germs. I do not support the germ theory. I do not even maintain there is a germ theory. When certain strains or species of germs set up business in anybody's tissues there is no theory about it. It is a fact. The germ theory as a subject of learned discourse now belongs in the almshouse.

The day has long passed when such factors as fright and exposure to cold can be assigned as actual or contributing causes of St. Vitus' dance. For that matter, the same truth should apply to the causation of a score of other diseases which formerly were attributed to exposure to cold. One by one the real nature and causes of such diseases are being established and proved by scientific study, and every day in every way the doctors who still mutter about "exposure" or "taking cold" are feeling more uneasy.

Dr. E. C. Rosenow, working at the Mayo Foundation, has isolated from cases of chorea strains of streptococci (a type of germ) which have an affinity for and tendency to infect or involve the tissues of the heart valves, joint linings and muscles, as well as the brain, an affinity much more pronounced than any other type of streptococcus. When it comes to a question of streptococci, Rosenow is right there. It was he who established the principle of focal infection as a cause of various systemic diseases—but this does not mean that Dr. Rosenow should be blamed by every one who has sacrificed a set of teeth without realizing the hoped for cure of rheumatism, for Rosenow never considered an unscientific guesswork like that. There is under way, according to rumor, an attempt to develop an anti-streptococcal serum which may prove a great help in the treatment of chorea.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Inside of the Chest.
What does fluid or pus in the chest mean? What are rales? Is a stethoscope examination as good as an X-ray? (N. C.)

Answer—An attack of pleurisy (inflammation of the membrane which covers the lungs and lines the chest wall) is often accompanied with an accumulation of fluid in the chest. This fluid may be clear watery fluid (serum) or blood stained or purulent. When it is purulent (pus) the condition is called empyema; it is much more grave because of the septic state or blood poisoning that goes with it. For clear fluid, the chest is punctured with a hollow needle and the fluid drawn out by aspiration. For pus, it is necessary to make a free opening and insert a drainage tube. Sometimes watery serum accumulates in the chest cavity in a general manner from heart disease. Rales are certain little crackling or bubbling sounds heard in connection with the usual breathing sounds in pneumonia, tuberculosis and other lung diseases. A stethoscope examination is ordinarily much more informative than an X-ray examination, but the X-ray examination may enable the doctor to clinch a diagnosis which would otherwise remain uncertain.

Syphilis.
Is there any danger of getting syphilis by dancing with one who has it, by breathing their breath, or by kissing? (Fairfax, Ia.)

Answer—Syphilis has been transmitted in many cases by kissing. I can't say that there are authentic records of instances of transmission of the disease by dancing with one who has it, though I'd prefer to sit out that dance if I were a girl.

We suggest that the author of that new income tax bill that repeals the personal property offset fix up a booth at the auto show in the armory. It would be rather encouraging for automobile owners, you know, if they saw they are to pay the full tax on their incomes as well as on their cars.

The law framers must have it in mind for the automobiles. First there is regular license tax; then there is the personal property tax; now they are going to license automobile drivers too; they also want to pass a bill for compulsory automobile insurance there will be the gasoline tax; and don't forget that war tax either.

Salesman X over at the auto show says he would have half a chance to sell cars if his firm would only agree to pay the tax on them.

Some Governors Receive Low Pay

(From The Manchester Union.)

Three states—New Hampshire, Vermont and South Dakota—pay their governors $8,000. It is not high pay for a man holding the highest office in his state. Any man in high office is subjected to a most serious strain upon his finances by the importance to contribute to every sort of drive, worthy cause and unworthy cause.

The late Col. James O. Lyford used to tell how the first year he was naval officer of the port of Boston, before he realized what he was doing he had, in subscriptions, contributing to every cause whose solicitor appealed to him, used half of his salary. A public man is asked to contribute not merely for the sake of the money he donates, but for the influence of his name.

Three states pay their governors $4,000. Big Texas and little Delaware and Wyoming, big in area and small in population. "Al" Smith, governor of the biggest and richest state, gets $10,000, while the next largest and richest state, Pennsylvania, pays $18,000, and the third in both of these particulars, Illinois, pays $12,000. Even the higher paid governors experience such demands upon their pocketbooks for the incessant contributions already mentioned, and for the entertaining they have to do and the assessments for party purposes, that it is by no means a profitable job.

Now and then someone speak of a politician seeking office for the money there is in it. This is seldom true of an elective office. A frugal man who can manage to stay in congress, say after he has paid the expenses of his first campaign, regards his as a good and well-paying job.

If he learns how to withstand the assaults of solicitors, he can lay aside money. But it is something of a man's job to keep the solicitors at bay, and in these days of incessant drives, perpetual demands for doles, it is a difficult thing for an office holder to get much more than his board and clothes.

Koreans Shake Hands To Wed

(From The Living Age.)

Japan is having some trouble with a tribe that lives in the wondrous parts of Korea and is believed to number some 70,000 souls, whose members have an incurable habit of burning down the forests—with which Korea is not overblessed—in order to secure fresh soil for planting crops. Jiji says that they live as simply as cave-dwellers, although they do build thatched huts of the most primitive construction.

They never bathe, from birth till death, and they have no doctors or medicines. Whether they do not need them, in view of their abstinence from the unhealthy custom of washing, is not quite clear. Rice, millet and potatoes constitute their uninteresting menu, and they go to bed when it is dark, as they have not the burden of artificial light.

In marrying they do not even exchange sake cups—they probably haven't any—but merely shake hands! Travelers in Korea should beware how they shake hands with primitive maidens or they may find themselves tied up to them for life.

These primitives have a good reputation, in that they are entirely inoffensive. They come to town only once a year, bringing their surplus produce, which they sell and buy with the money supplies to meet their simple needs for the year.

Adventures In The Library

By ARNOLD MULDER

END-OF-THE-WORLD STUFF

The announcement made a week or two ago that the World was to come to an end again on Feb. 6 reminded me of a rather good and also a somewhat amusing novel by Homer Groy in which a similar prophecy and how it affected a queer set in rural Missouri is described. The book is called "Boone Stop" and although it is not by any means or in any sense a great novel, belonging to Homer Groy's experimental period, it is nevertheless worth dipping into.

Its real value lies in the fact that Homer Groy is very evidently describing scenes that he knows at firsthand. He is a native of Missouri and he lived in the back country of that state as a boy. He tells the story of a group of religionists who believed implicitly that the world was coming to an end on a certain date. What that belief does to those people forms a considerable part of the story and although much of it is amusing the story is not written in a spirit of mockery but, rather in a spirit of presenting honestly how such a fantastic prophecy may affect a fanatical community. The preparations for the end of the world are seen through the eyes of a boy who is necessarily greatly affected by them.

WROTE "WATER TOWER"

Homer Groy, in case some may not readily place him, is the writer who jumped into fame—or at least into notoriety—a year or two ago when it was revealed that he was the author of "West of the Water Tower." This book had been published anonymously and the usual guesswork had been going on for months as to its authorship. Next he read that Arnold Bennett wrote at breakneck speed and almost never took the trouble to revise his manuscripts. So Groy tried that method, but still the manuscripts kept coming back.

He wrote "Booth" Tarkington's method of writing with a pencil and somebody else's method of writing with a quill pen and still someone else's method of using a green ribbon on his typewriter. But nothing was of any avail. Finally he stumbled on to the idea that he would have to work out his own salvation and would have to try to get down on paper, no matter how, what was actually in his mind. Then he was on the right road and he forgot all about trying to ape other writers. He admits that after about 20 years of writing it is harder work today than at the start. But hard plugging has brought him at least a measure of success.

had fallen flat he would have kept still about it.

And that is what all of Homer Groy's book had been doing up to that time, they had constantly been falling flat. Even his end-of-the-world book, "Boone Stop," had not set the literary world afire and it is very likely that thousands who have read "West of the Water Tower" have never heard of that book. Homer Groy, by the way, came out with a new book last fall, "E. P. No. 3," which is said to be a rather good study of rural life.

But whatever success Homer Groy has had has been won with studies of the rural western life that he has known from boyhood up. He is in this respect like scores of other writers. He tried every other kind of stuff but it remained for him to return to the material that was bred in the bone with him and that at first he probably did not at all consider important.

TRIED OTHERS' WAYS

Groy himself gives an interesting account of his struggles to win recognition. At first he was under the illusion that the secret of success, in writing lay in superficial things. He heard that one writer always worked during the night and slept daytimes. Straightway Groy did the same, but his manuscripts continued to come back just the same. Then he read that Flaubert frequently spent a whole day looking for a single word. Groy bought himself a big dictionary and proceeded to follow Flaubert's example. But his manuscripts came back even faster than before. Next he read that Arnold Bennett wrote at breakneck speed and almost never took the trouble to revise his manuscripts. So Groy tried that method, but still the manuscripts kept coming back.

He wrote "Booth" Tarkington's method of writing with a pencil and somebody else's method of writing with a quill pen and still someone else's method of using a green ribbon on his typewriter. But nothing was of any avail. Finally he stumbled on to the idea that he would have to work out his own salvation and would have to try to get down on paper, no matter how, what was actually in his mind. Then he was on the right road and he forgot all about trying to ape other writers. He admits that after about 20 years of writing it is harder work today than at the start. But hard plugging has brought him at least a measure of success.

STAGE AND SCREEN

"THIEF IN PARADISE" BIG THRILL DRAMA

If you like romance, vivid color, tense drama and pictorial beauty in your screen entertainment, don't miss George Fitzmaurice's "A Thief in Paradise," being offered at the Elito Theatre by First National today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The story, an adaptation by Frances Marion of Leonard Morick's novel "The Worldlings," opens with a vivid episode in the pearl fisheries of China. Coast and progresses swiftly to San Francisco, Burlington and Del Monte, Calif. It is the story of a man whom Fate has made a failure, and who seizes the opportunity to masquerade as another man in one last effort to regain his self respect. His accomplice in the impersonation is an Eurasian girl, who falls in love with him and stops at nothing to win him. In the role of the other man, he meets and eventually marries another girl. The dramatic possibilities of this situation are worked out to the ultimate limit.

The story told against almost any background would grip, but Fitzmaurice, with his usual love of lavish pictorial effects, has provided a wide variety of backgrounds and novelties. There is the unusual girls' polo game played by two teams of beauties clad in bathing suits, and the novel undersea dance pageant which marks the turning point in the story.

LEFT'S SMALL THINGS IN CHAPLIN PICTURE

The small things in life are generally the elements which mould and control the destinies of human mortals. The seemingly trivial incident of an uncompleted telephone conversation was the means whereby the life of Marie St. Clair was entirely diverted from becoming the wife of her village sweetheart, and embarked her upon the career of "A Woman of Paris," where she became the plaything of the richest man of the gayest city in the world.

Miss Purviance's portrayal of the difficult role of a demi-monde, whereby she spreads sorrow and anguish to others, yet retains the sympathies of her audiences is a revelation. Her characterization and the technique of Chaplin's direction are masterful strokes portraying the art of life's paintings in the photoplay.

STATE IS HELPING HANDICAPPED MEN EARN THEIR LIVING

Experts Offer Special Training to Disabled Citizens of Wisconsin

Methods by which the state of Wisconsin is aiding her disabled men and women to secure proper training so that their physical disabilities will not handicap their earning power, are thoroughly discussed in a pamphlet received by H. H. Hellig, director of Appleton Vocational school, from the rehabilitation division of the state board of vocational education. The pamphlet states that the work is not charity but a training opportunity for disabled men and women. Free service is given to citizens injured in industry or civil accidents, disabled through sickness or physically handicapped from birth. This service is for civilians and not disabled war veterans, who are taken care of by agencies for that purpose.

Any citizen of Wisconsin, over 14 years of age, who because of physical disability acquired in any of the above mentioned ways, and who, after completing a rehabilitation course, may be expected to engage in remunerative occupation, is eligible to the aid offered through the Federal and state rehabilitation laws, the pamphlet states. The state aims to assist its handicapped citizens by advancing funds so that proper artificial appliances may be secured, at once, by fitting the disabled person for useful employment and by securing employment for the person after the completion of the course. Proper execution of such a plan will mean fewer burdens on friends and relatives and financial independence, contentment and happiness for the retrained person, the pamphlet says.

Over 450 cases were listed in the first six months of operation and over 100 of them were placed in training in that time. Anyone who knows of a handicapped man or woman is requested to drop a card to W. F. Faulkes, State Supervisor of Industrial Rehabilitation, state capitol, Madison. Acceptance of this training by persons injured in industry does not affect in any way or deprive such a person of any rights under the workmen's compensation act.

A list of occupations for persons disabled in any way and examples of some crippled men and women of Wisconsin and the work they are doing to earn their living through the aid of the state are given in the pamphlet. Several local people were taken care of during a recent visit of a representative of the state board.

LAWRENCE AND RIPON ON STATE DEBATE TOUR

After this trip two final debates with Ripon teams will close the season, although for the Lawrenceans, the post-season trip to the coast will be the big event of the year.

Two Noted Artists Appear In Joint Recital Tonight

COURTESY
N. Y. TIMES

BRONISLAW HUBERMAN

A treat for music lovers is promised for Monday night when Tandy Mackenzie, lyric tenor, Bronislaw Huberman, world renowned violinist, appear in a joint recital in Lawrence Memorial chapel as the third number of Community Artist series. Both men are recognized as great artists and are much in demand on the concert stage all over the country.

Huberman has an international reputation as a violinist. He received his training in Europe and has played in all the countries of the continent. His playing was regarded as phenomenal while he still was a boy and he was highly honored before he was out of his teens with a request to be the solo violinist at a farewell concert by Adeline Patil, the most noted singer of her day.

Mackenzie is an American product. He was born in Hawaii but received his musical education in America. A special point of distinction is that he was "discovered" by no less a personage than John McCormack. The noted tenor advised Mackenzie that "he had a gold mine in his throat" and urged him to cultivate his voice.

HOLD HEARINGS ON TWO MORE BILLS TO REVISE TAX LAWS

Legislative Committees Have Not Acted on Administration Tax Measure

Madison — Public hearings will be held Tuesday by the senate corporations and taxation committee on the two remaining income tax bills pending in the Wisconsin legislature. These are the Morris-Blanchard bill, reducing rates of income tax on all classes 25 per cent, and the Schuman bill providing for drastic raises in income rates on individual classes and a flat rate of 4 per cent in the corporation class.

The committee, acting in conjunction with the corresponding committee in the assembly, heard arguments for and against the administration income tax bill but has not held an executive session to determine action on it.

A hearing on the committee bill which would tax the income of banks in place of capital stock also has

Badgers flocked to Los Angeles from all corners of the state and the final estimate was 6,000 loyal sons and daughters were present to keep alive the spirit of the Badger state. Federal Income Tax

Partnerships as such are not subject to the income tax, but are required to make returns on Form 1065 showing gross and net income. The net income of a partnership is computed in the same manner and on the same basis as the net income of an individual, except that deductions for contributions or gifts are not permitted.

Individual members are taxed on the distributive shares of a partnership, whether distributed or not, and are required to include such shares in the individual return of income, though they may not have been actually received.

Every partnership must make a return regardless of the amount of its net income, or even if it has no net income. The return must show the name and address of each partner and the amount of the distributive share of the net income, if any, of each. Any one of the partners may sign and swear to the return, which may cover the calendar or fiscal year, according to the firm's method of accounting.

Where the result of a partnership operation is a net loss, the loss is divisible by the taxpayer in the same proportion as the net income would have been divisible and may be taken by the partners in their individual returns of income. However, if the partnership agreement provides for the division of a loss in a manner different from the division of a gain, such proportionate losses may be deducted by the partners as so agreed.

CITIZENSHIP CLASSES VISIT PUBLIC UTILITIES

The citizenship classes of Appleton high school, now studying communication and transportation, were taken through the telephone office on Friday so they might understand how messages are transmitted. Thursday William Gust, wire chief, and F. N. Belanger, district traffic supervisor, explained the telephone system so that the pupils through the office might be simplified.

The classes will be taken through the Post office on Monday and later through the Post-Crescent plant. Karl A. Windsholm and C. Willard Cross are instructors in citizenship.

Kimberly High School Building Is Finished And In Use By Classes

Fireproof Brick Structure Is Handsome Addition to Village—Public Opening Will Not Be Held Until Later

Kimberly's attractive new high school building has been completed and is being used for classes, although there has been no formal public opening. Finishing touches are required in a few places and a visiting day will be announced later, so residents of the village may inspect the structure.

This building gives Kimberly an efficient educational equipment and not only meets the present needs adequately but is designed so that it may be enlarged easily and a gymnasium added.

The high school is practically in the center of the village, on Kimberly-ave east of Kimberly State bank. It stands about 75 feet back from the street, giving opportunity for a large lawn which will be planted with shrubs and beautified this spring by an expert landscape gardener. There is a large playground at the rear which was used for a municipal skating rink this winter, and will become a baseball diamond in the summer.

BUILT FOR ENLARGEMENT
Ornamental red facing brick was used for the exterior of the building, similar to that used for one of the Appleton Junior high schools. The stone coping, water tables and trimmings are made of pressed stone produced by an Oshkosh concern. The wall next to the court is so constructed that an addition may be built at any time without much tearing away of brick and without weakening the supports. An enlargement also will not disturb the architectural proportions of the school. The steel work has been designed so that partitions can be changed at will.

Ten classrooms, each 24 by 35 feet in size, are provided in the new building. These include quarters for domestic science and manual training. Each is lighted by several large windows and each also has six powerful electric lights. The rooms have disappearing door vestibules, with separate ones for the teachers. Each classroom also has a telephone which provides communication with the principal's office. The floors in the rooms are of maple but those in the corridors are of terrazzo. The stairs also are of terrazzo. Two additional classrooms for which the school has no use now have been left unfinished but can be equipped quickly in case of growth of the enrollment.

Fireproof construction was used wherever possible. Precautions also have been taken to guard against fire. A fire alarm system has been wired and has call boxes in various parts of the building. Water connections from the village waterworks plant supply water for fire hose 200 feet long placed on racks on each floor.

HAS VENTILATING SYSTEM
The heating system is a combination of steam and hot air with automatic temperature control. It is so constructed that fresh air can be taken into the system and heated and then supplied to the rooms, thus giving satisfactory ventilation. The hot air system can be disconnected when the school is not in session so the rooms will be heated by the steam plant only. A large enough boiler was installed so that it can heat at least four more rooms than the present and also a gymnasium. The expense for heating additions to the present building therefore will be only for radiators and pipes. A gas burner also is part of the equipment. The heating plant was designed by one of the finest in Wisconsin by four state engineers who inspected it.

Each floor is supplied with several bubblers for drinking purposes and there are lavatories in the basement and on the two upper floors. An automatic call bell system has been installed, controlled from a clock.

All state requirements have been met in construction of the school and it will rank with the best in Wisconsin. The contractors are the H. J. Summer Co. of Green Bay, Paul Lochschmidt is the caretaker.

Joins Realty Firm
Joseph Prosche, route 1, Menasha, has been taken into the firm of Franklin and Co., real estate agents, with offices in the Olympic building on W. College-ave. Mr. Prosche has had considerable experience in selling farm lands and will take care of this part of the business for the local firm. He recently sold his farm near Menasha, where he has made his home for several years, to J. E. Schmidt.

SMITH OUT OF RACE FOR COUNTY JUDGE

Illness Prevents Seymour Attorney from Carrying on Campaign for Office

Attorney Ellsworth C. Smith will not be a candidate for county judge at the election in April, according to a statement issued by him Saturday. Mr. Smith announced several weeks ago that he would make the run in opposition to Judge Fred V. Heinemann, incumbent, but illness has compelled his withdrawal.

"A condition of my health which will require my entering a hospital for an operation makes it inadvisable if not impossible for me to carry on a campaign such as would be required," said Mr. Smith. "In justice, therefore, to my many friends throughout the county who have assured me of their support, I deem it only just that they know of the conditions which preclude my making the run."

PASTOR NOT INTERESTED IN CALL TO IOWA CHURCH

The Rev. F. L. Schreckenberg, pastor of Trinity English Lutheran church, has received a letter from a congregation in Iowa, asking him if he would be interested in a call to that city. The Rev. Schreckenberg will not consider the proposal, as he plans to remain in Appleton.

NAME COMMITTEE IN FIRE CONTEST

Fire men have been appointed by the Chamber of Commerce as a committee to engage for Appleton in the inter-chamber fire waste contest of the chamber of commerce of the United States. George F. McGillan, chief of the fire department, is the chairman and the others are George H. Beckley, P. A. Kornely, R. E. Carnecross and Chrs Mullen.

This committee will cooperate with the fire prevention group in the better cities contest of the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work. The two expect to make a complete survey of Appleton's fire protection, hazards and prevention accomplishments and devise ways to make the city more safe than ever before from this standpoint. Considerable honor goes to the city winning the shield offered.

Form "The Polarine Habit" It's a Good One

DON'T minimize the importance of lubrication. Reports show that only 2% of the operating expense of your car is chargeable to oil—but, this 2% intimately affects, 1st, depreciation 30%, 2nd, repairs 30%, and 3rd, fuel 15%.

See that the oil level in your crankcase is maintained. Watch your lubricating oil, just as you watch the air in your tires, your gasoline supply and the water in your radiator.

Because the engine does not send out a loud distress call for oil, do not become indifferent to its needs.

The damage done by improper or insufficient lubrication is great. It will cost you more in the end than the damage done by driving on a flat tire or with an empty radiator. But, it is slower in calling itself to your attention.

Use Polarine exclusively—it will pay high dividends. It saves wear and tear; reduces repair bills and increases the mileage you get from a gallon of gasoline.

"The Polarine Habit" will greatly decrease your operating cost and largely increase your motor efficiency.

Drain your crankcase every 500 miles and refill with fresh Polarine.

CLIPPING FROM OLD PAPER RECALLS OIL BOOM OF "SIXTIES"

Menasha and Appleton People Excited Over Prospects of Great Riches

Menasha — In the current issue of the Clinton Times appears an item taken from the Menasha Press of Feb. 20, 1922, which harks back to the time when a natural gas well was struck in the town of Buchanan on the property now known as the Blaz- ing stump resort. The land at that time was owned by Peter Hopfensperger.

The article says: Towards the latter part of 1892 drilling was begun on a piece of land owned by Peter Hopfensperger and a few days after visible signs of gas appeared. An explosion which took place at the well Monday led people to believe that a bonanza had been discovered, and soon after when a lighted match was applied to the end of an iron pipe run into the ground a huge flame shot out of the opening their belief was greatly strengthened.

"Reports of the find reached Menasha and a number of citizens became interested in the alleged find. An investigation was made by several who were satisfied that the well would prove paying property."

"Accordingly a 20 year lease of the land was made to M. M. Schoetz, Fred Toeschler, Jr., and Joseph Sauter of Menasha and Peter Hopfensperger of Buchanan. Mr. Schoetz taking a half interest, Mr. Toeschler a quarter and the remaining quarter being equally divided between Sauter and Hopfensperger. It was proposed to run pipes from the well to Hopfensperger's residence to ascertain whether the gas might be used for domestic lighting."

In speaking of the discovery Saturday Mr. Schoetz said he was engaged by a New York mining firm to take out leases on surrounding property to the extent of several thousand acres. He was required to skip every other section on the more distant property. The leases varied in price per acre and were made out for a term of years. They contained a clause for the payment of a royalty to the owner of the land in the event oil or gas was discovered in paying quantities. Mr. Schoetz was paid promptly for making out the leases but never learned how long the payments on them were kept up after the project was abandoned.

"According to a clipping preserved by Mr. Schoetz Wisconsin was in the throes of a petroleum boom for several years. Appleton with a population of 2700 was supporting in May, 1895 seven petroleum companies in various stages of organization. In Appleton where the excitement centered about an oil well from which it was claimed gas intermittently discharged a miniature mining rush took place."

On April 5, 1895, the editor of the Appleton Crescent wrote: "Strangers keep flowing to town. There is a constant stream of visitors to the Northwestern company's well. House room is becoming so scarce that the newcomers will soon be obliged to bring their tents with them or sleep standing."

MENASHA AUTO TIPS INTO DITCH

There are about 20 boys enrolled and they will hold their first meeting at St. Mary school Tuesday evening. The Rev. Father Weik, assistant pastor, will be the scoutmaster of what will be known as troop 6. He formerly was scoutmaster of a troop at Manitowish and with the assistance of several experienced boys in the new church organization expects to shape a highly active group.

Two experienced boy scouts are to be commissioned soon as assistants. They are Woodrow and Earl Gorton, who were members and received their training in troop No. 8 of St. Thomas Episcopal church. It is the plan of P. O. Keicher, executive of Valley council, Boy Scouts of America, to commission further leaders from the boy scout ranks in various places as needed.

MANY ACCIDENTS ON SLIPPERY STREETS

Menasha—The slippery condition of the pavement Sunday evening made it impossible for either of the bus lines to operate between Appleton and Menasha after 7 o'clock. One of the most dangerous places on highway 15 was at Gmelner's corner, where several watchmen were on duty part of the time to warn drivers. After several automobiles skidded into the ditch the pavement was covered with sand.

Another dangerous place which resulted in several accidents was the corner of Third and De Pere-sts. Menasha. The trouble was overcome by the street department distributing sand on the pavement. Several accidents were reported on Oshkosh road. A traveling salesman who came from Lomira Monday said he counted 14 automobiles in the ditch between Lomira and Fond du Lac. Employees of the street department distributed sand on the sidewalks of the principal streets early Monday morning which prevented serious accidents to pedestrians.

They shifted their players many times during the game in an effort to get a working machine. Hilton was the star of the visiting team. Wrinkles Are Tragedy In Woman's Life

"The dangerous age of women is 40."

For this we have the word of the most brilliant woman in Denmark, Karin Michéllis.

However true it may be, there is no doubt that 40 is far and away the most dangerous time of a woman's life.

It is the time when she stops putting candles on her birthday cake, and starts putting cold cream on her first wrinkles.

Ah, those first wrinkles! Whole books could be written on them.

For they are one of the supreme tragedies of a woman's life—or they can be! It all depends on the woman.

"Yes, I'm pretty now," says Dinero's Paula Tanqueray. "But even now I notice that the lines in my face are getting deeper. So are the hollows about my eyes. . . . Soon I'll be a worn-out creature. . . . my hair too bright, my eyes too dull, my body too thin or too stout, my cheeks raddled and ruddled! A ghost, a wreck, a caricature!"

And there in a nutshell you have the whole tragedy of a great class of women. . . . the butterfly type that has neither a job nor children to keep her young. Usually her family consists of a husband who pays the bills.

LOOKS DON'T COUNT

She has nothing in life to depend upon except the things a pretty face gives a woman. . . . Admiration from men, envy from other women, and good times.

And when her looks are gone, those things are gone with them.

At 40, the butterfly woman peers into the glass and knows that in a few years she will be like Longfellow's "yellow leaf in autumn"

And with one last clutch at her vanishing youth, she plunges into wild gaudy and belated romance. the only things that mean anything in her life.

And that is what Karin Michéllis means, I think, when she says that 40 is the dangerous age for women.

But not for all women! For the worker type it is the time when she begins to score on life.

Such women as Ethel Barrymore and Kathleen Norris are at the very height of their fame and power at 40. In another eight years, when the childlike Mary Pickford will be 40, she will probably be the greatest film-play-producer in the world as today she is the greatest actress.

For at 32 she is wisely getting ready to do that very little thing

"I shall soon be 35," Gloria Swanson said the other day when she married a French marquis. "And then I shall leave the screen for good, and have a large family of children to keep me young in my old age."

FAMILY MEANS TOUTH

I think that, without exception, that is the most sensible remark that ever fell from the rouged lips of a film actress. . . . those women who know better than any others what a tragedy a wrinkle or a double chin can be!

For middle age has no terrors for the woman with a family. At that time children have usually passed beyond the bothersome age and have become a source of pride and keen pleasure.

And it is one of the tricks of fate, that, nine times out of ten, the mature woman who has been too busy to bother about her complexion and figure, has kept both of them to a far greater extent than her idle sister who has spent both time and money on face massage, hair dyes, and milk packs.

"Grow old gracefully," was the slogan of our grandmothers.

"Grow old husily," is the more modern one. . . . and the chances are that you'll grow old very slowly, too!

How To Make Homes Cozy

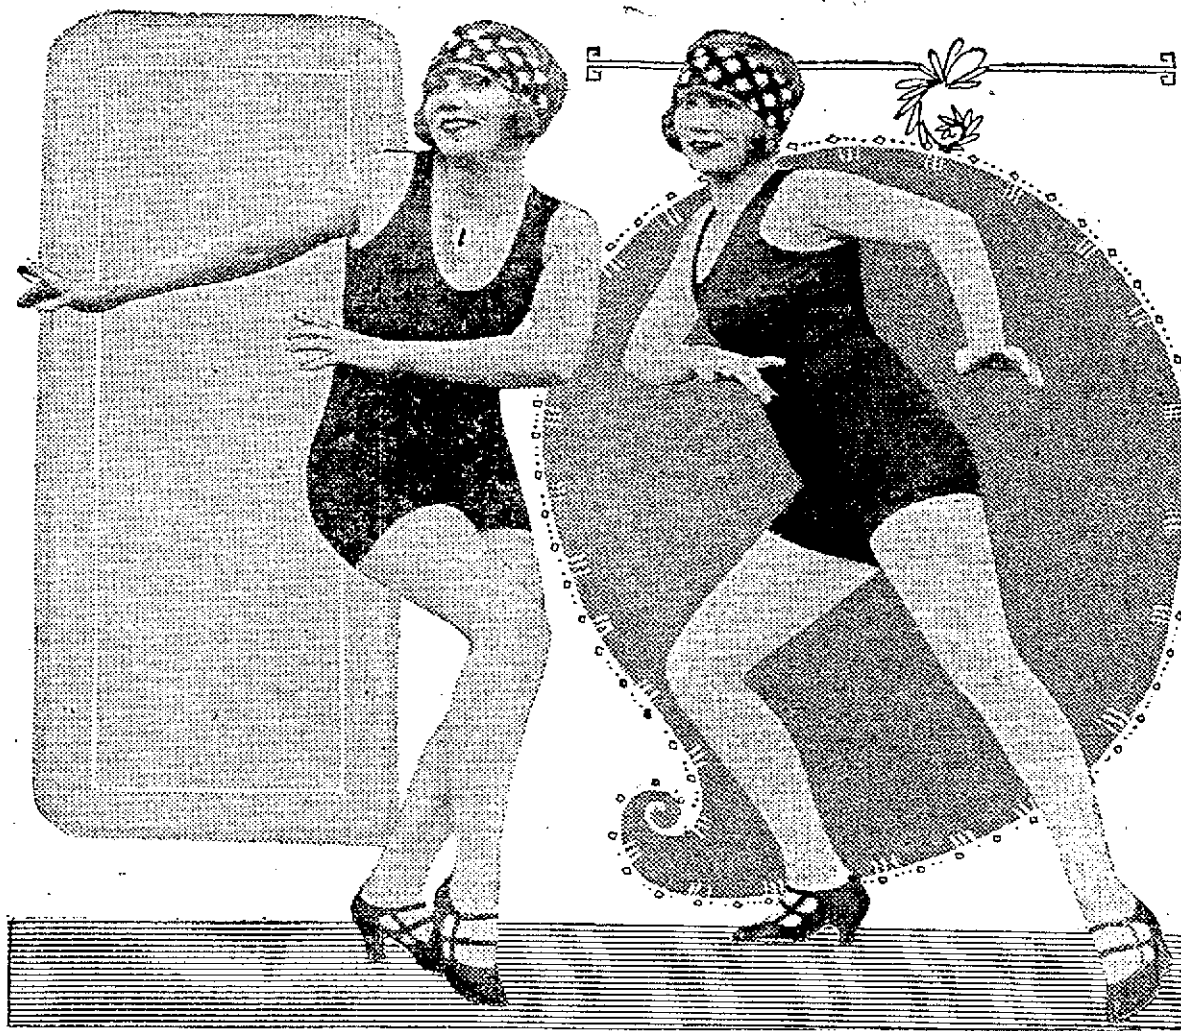

MIRROR'S PLACE IN THE HALL

The most advantageous spot for a hall mirror is on the wall facing the living room, so that it may reflect the beauty and comfort of the interior.

Despised Housework Will Help Reduce Waistline

DANCES LIKE THESE WILL HELP

GILDA GRAY'S DANCES TO REDUCE WEIGHT.

BY GILDA GRAY

The woman who is going to keep herself slender and symmetrical through exercise must be prepared to give a reasonable amount of time to it, particularly at the start. And, since time is the most valuable commodity we have, it should be spent as pleasantly as possible.

That's why I advise every woman to dance.

"But I haven't danced for years," you insist. Which makes me insist that is all the more reason why you should.

By dancing I don't mean one-step and fox trots, for although those are very pleasant, they don't count for a great deal when it comes to taking off pounds.

THIS KIND OF DANCING

The dancing I mean is, reduced to its simplest terms, simply combining the twists and bends you do in regular exercise into a rhythmic expression.

Put a good jazzy record on the victrola, or if you haven't one whistle or sing, and let the rhythm suggest a dance. Don't be afraid to kick up your heels and let yourself go.

If you lack confidence in yourself, go to an instructor who will give you a few lessons in classic or native dancing until you know how to hold your body properly and learn to interpret music for yourself.

I have never taken dancing lessons in my life. I trust you in confidence that I never have any idea what sort of a dance I am going to do until I hear the music—then it suggests movement and I go ahead. And never have I ever appeared in public when I did not enjoy myself and get a positive thrill from the sheer physical exhilaration of dancing.

A child dances naturally if you let her alone. She dances with no more self-consciousness than in running or pink satin or crepe, cut on sheath lines.

ENSEMBLE SUITS

Ensemble suits of black velvet are most lovely when combined with white fur or white satin.

SCARLET KASHA

Brilliant scarlet kasha cloth is used to line a black kasha coat which is finished at the bottom with a line of red and black fringe.

KNICKER SUITS

Most attractive knicker suits for winter sport wear come in tan and brown plaid wools and have coats of plain brown.

NEWEST SKIRTS

The newest skirts are shorter than ever and many of them are narrow, while others introduce circular effects to good advantage.

PRINTED CHIFFON

Very stunning printed chiffon gowns have a white background with designs in black and gray.

PEARLS WORN

Long strands of pearls are very fashionable, particularly those with sections of brilliants or emeralds at regular intervals.

FOR TRIMMING

Delicate embroideries in cross stitch are used to trim white crepe de chine dresses for Palm Beach wear.

NEW PARASOLS

Cretone parasols in a wide variety of colors and designs are on sale for Palm Beach resorts.

SELLS FRINGE

Fringe, particularly narrow silk fringe used in many rows so that it almost covers the skirt, is very smart now.

skipping. It is only when we have grown sedate and settled that we hesitate to dance with joy and abandon.

I admit that sight of a fully developed woman doing nature dancing is not particularly aesthetic in itself, and I believe women should confine these demonstrations to their own little group of serious reducers, but I do believe they are of inestimable value in keeping a woman supple and graceful and light on her feet.

Jumping the rope gives me just as much pleasure as it did when I was a tot with pigtail. So does running. And in my place in the country I follow these activities whenever the notion strikes me. It believe jumping rope is one of the best possible exercises for reducing the ankles and calves. Yet I should not advise this for all women, as it sometimes is injurious to a woman with any tendency to heart trouble.

KEEP AUTO IN GARAGE

The automobile is sometimes a better friend in the garage than it is on the avenue. Every woman should have a good walk every day, and I know no better way of getting it than by walking to work, to the market to get the daily supplies or combining it with some definite object. The idea of a walk, merely as exercise, doesn't appeal much to me for the simple reason that time is too scarce.

When you have housework to do, think of doing it so that it will be exercise as well as work. Sweeping or scrubbing, despised tasks that they are, give you ample opportunity for stretching and bending, and dusting is considerably less dull if you open the window and practice deep breathing at the same time you wield the dust-cloth.

When you have carried your exercise to the point where they are a pleasure to you, you will find many ways of incorporating them in your daily life. And your path to slenderness will be smoothed as you come nearer its goal.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO MRS. SALLY ATHONTON

Dear Mrs. Atherton: You will doubtless be surprised when you see this letter to find I have decided to send my resignation to the Acme Advertising Company to take effect the first of next month. You of course know I had decided that under no circumstances would I accept my father-in-law's proposition to come here and manage his steel plant. I remember you approved of my decision.

"That approval made me very happy, for you doubtless are aware by this time, without my telling you, that I have come to depend greatly on your approval of my opinions and decisions. Indeed, I think some of my decision in the last few months have depended upon your confirmation.

You will remember how we both decided that it would be very unprofitable on my part to accept the management of the plant, for as you said, Mr. Hamilton was such an aggressive man, he would not be able to leave it all to me; he would be forever butting in.

However, when I arrived here I found that circumstances had changed the whole aspect of the matter. Instead of wanting to make me manager while he was taking a rest, I found that Mr. Hamilton knew he would never be able to work again, and that within the next few days he was going to his long rest. He had been impatiently awaiting my coming, for the doctor had informed him some days ago that he could only count his life by days, perhaps hours. I think he has literally kept himself alive until he could talk to me.

This morning my father-in-law and I had a long and very confidential talk; and if I can at the end of my days look back upon a life as well spent as his, I shall not worry about my future destination.

Mr. Hamilton has made me the sole executor of his estate, and he has appointed me manager of the steel plant in his place. You know he has 51 per cent of all the stock and can do this. He has even fixed my salary at fifty thousand dollars a year. I really do not know what I shall do with so much money, particularly as Leslie will have quite an income of her own.

He has made little Jack equal beneficiary with his own two children of the income of his estate, which is not to be divided until the death of his wife, when her third will be distributed between any grandchildren that may be living at the time. Ten per cent of all net income is to be distributed to charity each year.

I am telling you all this, my dear Mrs. Atherton, because I want you to understand that under no circumstances could I have refused Mr. Hamilton's request. First, of course you know, I am bound to him by not only ties of friendship but I stand in place of one of the sons he never had. It was up to me to see that his wife and daughters had the share he wished them to have in the rewards of the work he has done so well. On this account if for no other reason have I accepted his trust and will try to carry it on.

Safety Hints

VENTILATING SCREENS

It is dangerous to permit a draft to blow through a sleeping room. A ventilating screen can be purchased at a low cost or can be made at home. Such a screen used in the window will admit plenty of fresh air, yet will break a draft.

Last Dance before Lent at Eagles Hall, Tues., Feb. 24. Club Royal Orchestra. 7 pieces.

SISTER Mary's KITCHEN

Breakfast—California grapes, cereal, thin cream, creamed dried beef on toast, cornmeal gems, honey, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Tomato bisque, crotons, roast beef salad, whole wheat bread, marmalade, fig cookies, milk, tea.

Dinner—Beef and oyster pie, steamed squash, pineapple and cabbage salad, kraham bread, rice pudding, milk, coffee.

The luncheon salad is made with the left-over roast from the preceding dinner. We are so prone to make hash from left-over beef, that a new way of using the scraps is well worth trying.

The tomato bisque is a hearty soup for school children or those under school age. If whole wheat bread and butter with a filling of lettuce is served the salad should not be served to juniors.

TOMATO BISQUE

Two cups canned tomatoes, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1/2 teaspoon soda, 1 small onion, 5 whole cloves, 1 table spoon chopped parsley, 1/2 cup stale bread crumbs from soft part of loaf, 3 cups milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 5 tablespoons butter.

Melt two tablespoons butter in saucepan and add onion cut in thin slices. Simmer over a low fire for five minutes. Add milk, bread crumbs, parsley and cloves and let stand, covered, over hot water for 20 minutes. Rub through a strainer. Cook tomatoes with sugar for 15 minutes. Add soda and rub through a puree strainer. Reheat milk add tomatoes, salt, pepper and butter and serve at once.

ROAST BEEF SALAD

One and one-half cups cooked carrots, 1/2 cup cooked turnips, 1/2 cup string beans, 1/2 cup peas, 12 slices boiled or pickled beets, 1 cup diced cold roast beef, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, few grains mustard, 1/4 teaspoon powdered sugar, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 6 tablespoons oil.

The carrots and turnips should be cut in neat small cubes, and the beans in matchlike strips. Combine beets, carrots, turnips and roast beef. Mix salt, mustard, sugar and pepper. Add lemon juice and oil and beat well. Pour this dressing over the salad mixture and let stand in a cold place for one hour. If lettuce is at hand, arrange salad on a bed of shredded leaf lettuce or crisp leaves of head, sprinkle with cooked peas, and garnish with slices of beets. This is an excellent salad for the country housewife to keep in mind because it is not ruined by the lack of lettuce as most salads are.

Adventures Of The Twins

The Dolls Back Home

As Sally Wiggleson stood staring into the store window where all the fine wax ladies were, something happened.

But first you must know, if you don't know already, that the fine wax ladies had once been Sally's fifteen dolls that the Fairy Queen had changed with a wave of her wand. . . . This is what happened. The wax ladies began to cry. Tears rolled down all their wax cheeks as Sally stood staring.

The steam-pipes in the window had become very hot and that may have had something to do with it, but I doubt it. Steam-pipes are nothing to homesickies.

Sally sighed. "The poor wax ladies are melting," she said. "I'll go into the department and see my dear dollies. Oh, I do wish that I had been kind to them. I didn't know I liked them so well. I treated them shamefully and I don't blame them for wanting to come back to the store again."

She turned away and all the wax ladies cried out, "Oh, Sally, here we are! Don't you know us?"

Besides the window was in between. Now all this time the Fairy Queen had been watching. There she sat on Two Spot, her velvet butterfly.

But nobody thought it strange. They said, "The trimming in the window is lovely. What a pretty Fairy! You should think she was real. And if the latterly wasn't so huge, you would think it was real, too!"

"They didn't say anything about the Twins for they had hidden behind the velvet hangings in the window where they could see but couldn't be seen."

And they saw Sally staring. And they saw the wax ladies melting and crying.

The Fairy Queen smiled a little knowing smile.

"These wishes!" she said shaking her head over so little. "They are always a mistake. Would you like to go home again, dears, and be Sally's dollies and have tea-parties and get bathed, even if she does forget to dry you, and—"

"Oh, yes, yes!" cried all the grand

Sally didn't find her dolls in the toy department after all.

"I'm sure they are here," she insisted.

"They must have been sold," said the clerk.

"Oh!" said Sally and she went sadly home.

But, oh joy! There on the bed were all fifteen dolls in a row. She could hardly believe her eyes.

"Oh, you dears!" she cried hugging them all in a bunch.

Back in the window the store-keeper found nothing but a few drops of grease and a pile of silk dresses and fine furs.

"It was the steam pipes," said he. "They got too hot and the ladies melted."

"No wonder," said a customer. "And all those heavy furs on!"

The Twins and the Fairy Queen and Two Spot had disappeared.

Health Hints

SPRAINED ANKLES

One of Mrs. Mann's youngsters ran after a ball. A foot struck a small stone, and the child tumbled over in agony.

Mrs. Mann came running from the house. The child's stocking was rolled down, but there was not a mark to show any injury.

The pain continued, however, and Mrs. Mann called the doctor.

"A sprain," was the doctor's explanation, after a short examination.

"Now get me some hot water, and some bandages."

When the water was ready the ankle was immersed, and held in the water for quite a while.

Afterward bandages were wrapped about the ankle. They were not made too tight. Just enough to hold the joint in position.

The child was put to bed, and Mrs. Mann instructed to see that he kept the foot very quiet.

Witch-hazel was used to moisten the bandage. Mrs. Mann learned that gentle rubbing of the affected part helped to relieve the pain.

10-Day Tube FREE

Mother! Be sure you get Pepsodent for your child's teeth

Do you want your child to have prettier teeth now, and better protection from tooth troubles in later life?

Mail the coupon then for a 10-day tube of Pepsodent, free. See what the world's leading dentists urge mothers to use as modern science's latest attainment in tooth care.

You will notice a film on your child's teeth. That's a frequent danger sign—an invitation for tooth troubles. The same scrub-born film that you can feel by running your tongue across your own teeth. You must combat it. Ordinary dentifrices don't fight it successfully. Harsh, gritty substances are injurious to enamel.

Film is the greatest enemy of tooth health. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays.

Gems breed in it. The acid that leads to early decay forms. Old type methods failed to combat it. Men of science engaged themselves in discovering an effective combatant.

Now in Pepsodent, two new combatants are embodied—two combatants approved by highest dental authority. It erodes the film, then gently removes it. It keeps the teeth whiter, cleaner, more sparkling. It is the modern scientific method for better tooth protection. Insist upon it. Get a tube today. Mail the coupon.

FREE Mail this for 10-Day Tube to The Pepsodent Company, Sec. 530, 1104 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill., U. S. A.

Bronislaw Huberman was born in Russian Poland near Warsaw. His father was fondly musical and, soon perceiving the genius of his son, placed him with Michalowski of the Warsaw Conservatory and later with Isidore Lortie. At the age of seven he played Spohr's second violin concerto besides taking a leading part in a quartet of Rode.

At an early age his father took him to Berlin, where he studied under the famous master Joachim. A year later Huberman made public appearances in Amsterdam, Brussels and Paris, being everywhere acclaimed a "prodigy."

At the age of fourteen Huberman came to America as a child wonder. In 1904 he made tours through Austria, Italy, Germany, Russia and England. One brilliant success after another flashed his prowess throughout the world.

Before the world today, Bronislaw Huberman stands as a great violinist. At the zenith of his career, he plays with a brilliant technique and warmth of interpretation.

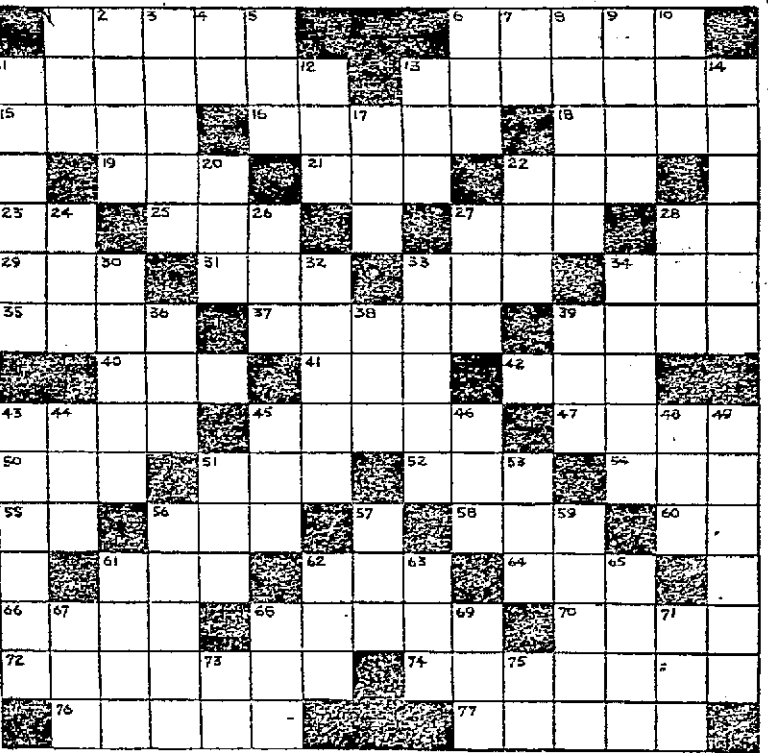

His art is perpetuated through his many splendid Brunswick Records.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS WOULD CUT PROFITS OF CANNON MAKERS

Munitions Business in Europe Good Despite Prevalence of Peace

By Associated Press

London—War or no war, the munitions business in Europe is good. During the years which followed the close of the late international cannon makers' picnic until 1923, the exports of material of war from one European country into another, not including warships, airplanes or similar equipment has overstepped the alarming total of $250,000,000. And the world has been almost pacific during this time.

The traffic commission of the League of Nations, which has rumormongered these figures, has set about to cut the dividends of the martial manufacturers by introducing a convention, which has been distributed to all nations, for the establishment of an international control of arms. The British government is understood to be fully in accord with the project, and its delegate to the next meeting of the commission to be held at Geneva next May will be instructed to support the document.

The new convention, drawn up at the meeting of the commission early this year is a substitute for the one adopted in September 1919 which was not accepted by the United States.

The United States has already indicated its willingness to subscribe to such a convention, and several other favorable replies have been received by the League.

The convention itself is a technical document of great length which experts claim so effectively limits the manufacture and distribution of materials of war as to put a stop to petty warfare among the distributing elements of the universe, and makes it hard for the greater nations to keep a war chest in the closet along with the skeleton.

RAILROADS SEEK SHORT HAULS NOW MADE BY TRUCKS

Official of Pennsylvania System Sees Benefit for Trucks in Future

By Associated Press

New York — Elsha Lee, vice-president in charge of operation of the Pennsylvania system, sees the motor delivery truck sharing honors with the freight train in future transportation, now that the railroad industry has become permanently divided into what he calls wholesale and retail departments.

Vice-President Lee holds the view that the chief problem in regard to the handling of freight, as between railroads and motor vehicles, are not those of competition, but rather those of coordination. "The part of the motor vehicle," Mr. Lee said, "is not to do what the railroads are already fitted and equipped to do with full success and satisfaction; it is to do what the railroads are not able to do at all, or else do only with difficulty and imperfect success."

"Such profits as the railroads are able to make at all comes practically altogether from the mass transportation of freight and passengers over at least considerable distances, in other words from what we may term the wholesale departments of transportation. This is just the form of service in which experience shows that trucks cannot consistently earn real profits."

On the other hand, those forms in which trucks can and do make money are almost invariably the strictly retail forms, in the rendering of which railroad operation is practically always involves losses, and as a result the use of motor trucks in the handling of short distance packages, or in railroads, "less-than-carload" (l. c. l.) freight has been doing the Pennsylvania Railroad until more than 30 routes are in operation. Most of these serve the suburban zones of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, and, to some extent, the eastern shore of Maryland. The extension of this trucking service has been accomplished practically with 12 months, and research and studies are under way to extend it further.

The management feels it has proved the speedy and mobile new auxiliary releases heavier railroad equipment for heavier traffic uses, increases efficiency of general service and effects important economies.

For a number of years it had been the custom to operate two package freight trains daily over the Philadelphia Wilmington line, one in each direction. These trains performed all the local service in the intermediate territory, taking up and laying down packages and other small shipments from station to station as required.

The railroad company and an independent trucking enterprise entered an arrangement whereby two motor trucks now perform all the local freight service formerly rendered by these two trains. The trucks go from station to station and pick up and put down shipments exactly as did the freight trains. As far as shippers are concerned there is no change in the arrangement, except that it has been found that the trucks are capable of rendering expedited and more regular service.

AMERICANS AVOID FRIENDS IN PARIS

By Associated Press

Paris—The sign "English spoken" is no longer necessary or even advisable, on a store window in Paris. American and English customers have become so plentiful that every first-class establishment pretends to have someone about who speaks a more or less vague version of the language.

Americans in particular run into their mother tongue so often that they try now and then to find one of those essentially French places, especially in the restaurant line, where there are no foreigners. They seldom succeed. When a new maître d'hôtel is engaged today in a restaurant, the first question is "Can you speak English?" If he can, he has a chance at the job, otherwise not. When the person who thinks he has found a nice little French place where there are no Anglo-Saxons, enters, he rarely fails to be spotted and addressed in English, and he hears as much English as French in any place where it costs as much as a dollar to eat.

Dressmakers specialize in English. They believe the American to be a good spender, and they capitalize the fact that the price of a gown seems low here. They forget to remind the customer that the duty will amount to not less than 70 per cent.

As for the big hotels, no one need ever speak French. In the music halls and even many of the legitimate theaters the programs are printed in both French and English.

GARAGE AND HOUSE
THREATENED BY TWO
FIRES ON SUNDAY

Firemen Battle Garage Fire in Fifth Ward and Save Home
in Second Ward

Appleton firemen responded to two fire alarms early Sunday morning. While one company was fighting a fire in a garage at the home of John Lisen, 312 N. State st., another company answered a call to the home of Herman Wildhagen, 218 N. Durkee st., where a fire had started in the basement. Later in the morning the firemen answered a pulmotor call. The fire at the Lisen garage was caused by an over-heated stove and broke out at about 1:30. Firemen were unable to save the building, as it was only a shell and the fire had a good start. The building formerly was used as a playhouse and later was converted into a garage. It did contain a car, but was used as a workshop. Spontaneous combustion among a pile of rags in the basement of the Wildhagen home was responsible for the fire which started there at 1:45. The fire kept up the partition and for a time threatened the first and second stories, but it was extinguished without the use of water. Most of the damage to the house was caused by the smoke.

RADIO PROGRAMS

Several stations have fitting Washington celebrations Monday evening. WCAP, WEEL, WOO, WCAE, WBAF, WJAR present the A. and P. Gypsy String Ensemble in a group of Washington selections late in the evening. WCAP presents the Memphis Symphony orchestra at 8:30. A 9 o'clock program brings Madame Thos. Mosler-Hermes and her artist pupils in an opera program from WOA-W. Monday is Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute night from WHAZ and the students put on an excellent program beginning at 9 o'clock, including selections by the Students' Symphony orchestra, Glee Club and Campus Serenaders.

The best program for Monday evening comes from WOS. James Gittinger of Columbia, a student of the University of Missouri, will render a group of piano solos. Gittinger is known as "Snodgrass, the second," and many unprejudiced listeners like his work much better than Harry's. Anyway, he has made a good impression in his first appearances and bids fair to make listeners forget the "king of the ivories."

The solemn old judge of WLS, George D. Hay, voted the most popular announcer by radio fans, will be the guest announcer from WFAA every evening this week. Ford and Glenn, his popular entertainers and some other Chicago talent will accompany him from South's best station. Daily entertainers will complete the programs. Periods to be used by the visitors are 6:30 to 7:30, Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, 5:30 to 6:30 on Monday Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings and 8:30 to 11 o'clock Sunday.

TAKES PIPE OFF
FURNACE AND IS OVERCOME BY GAS

Fire Department Pulmotor
Saves Restaurant Worker
from Asphyxiation

One man was overcome by gas and another was slightly under the effects of it Sunday when the furnace in the basement of the Baltimore lunch room failed to operate satisfactorily. Ed. Gresenz, a employee of the restaurant, was conveyed by the city ambulance to St. Elizabeth hospital after firemen laid worked upon him with the pulmotor. F. M. Ellis, proprietor, was slightly overcome, but recovered more quickly.

The predicament of young Gresenz was discovered by John Gerrits. The latter, noticing that smoke and gas fumes were penetrating into his establishment, thought there was a fire in the restaurant basement and went down to investigate. There he found Gresenz stretched on a pile of ashes. The pulmotor was put into operation in order to revive him.

The accident occurred at about 9:15 Sunday morning. Fresh fuel had been thrown into the furnace, and when it refused to burn satisfactorily, the smoke pipe was taken down to be cleaned out. The smoke and the gas from the fresh fuel were too much for the men. When the firemen removed Gresenz, the report was given out that still another man was down among the smoke, but he could not be found. Later it was learned that Ellis had crept away in time to avoid asphyxiation.

SERVE RAINBOW
VETS WITH FISH

Members of Appleton subchapter of Rainbow division, World War veterans will indulge in a fish fry at their regular meeting Monday evening.

About a dozen of the men were out on Lake Winnebago Sunday and brought back enough fish to make it interesting for their comrades. It is reported. In addition to the social and feed, other important business will be considered. The committee that was appointed to select a site for the Rainbow club cottage on some nearby lake will report on the progress they have made. Plans also will be discussed for starting a convention fund, to enable as many members as possible to attend the national convention at Chicago in July. In view of the fact that the national convention will be closer to home than it has ever been before, the chapter is desirous of sending the entire membership, if possible.

Several out-of-town Rainbow veterans are expected at the meeting Monday night.
